It’s empty inside

the surly faggot in the Calvin Klein underwear

   ad, but his face
   sneaks volumes,

   reminding you,
 not of your own, but
      some other

out in the air that anyone can walk briefly through.